2019 Annual Report

EXCITING INITIATIVES

Showing God's Love through new faith-based initiatives

In 2019, the Joint Grants Committee reviewed over 250 applications and the Foundation's Board awarded $1,607,248 to 133 programs and scholars. The people and projects these grants support represent a tremendous amount of energy in our communities for living out God's mission, examining new ways to invite people into our Church, and to exploring fresh approaches to providing service. Five of these innovative programs are highlighted here.

The Foundation was pleased to be able to offer The United Church of Canada a grant of $3 million to support communities of faith during COVID-19. This formed part of the emergency loan program the Church put in place to help communities of faith meet their financial obligations during the pandemic. This grant is possible because of the faithful forethought of many United Church people from across the country who made gifts in their will. We are so grateful for these generous planned gifts from those who have gone before us to benefit the future work of the Church we love.

Spirit of Music is an exciting new initiative to develop an outreach ministry of music and spirituality. A 'cluster ministry' with other United Churches, Spirit of Music first seeks to identify socially-isolated seniors within the Church's care radius who can no longer attend worship. Musical/spiritual events are then created in the homes of the isolated seniors.

Spirit of Music combines music with reflective storytelling and active listening. It's an innovative, creative process of faith discovery as leaders listen to isolated seniors and build an intimate and communal spiritual gathering with them.

Led by Christine MacLeod (pictured), a former United Church minister, the program builds off her dual talents as faith leader and music educator.

Once the pilot is completed, organizers hope that Spirit of Music will become a teachable outreach model for other United Churches and their pastoral care teams.

Showing God's Love to the World, donors are building bridges out of poverty

More than a ministry, Peterborough, ON's Bedford House is a community catalyst for social and spiritual response. Helping to build connections and relationships within their vast network provides volunteers with an immediate understanding of the barriers and circumstances facing people who are experiencing poverty. At the same time, under-resourced people develop positive relationships with people who are lawyers, therapists, parenting experts, and clergy. This work is supported by a grant from the Ann Baker Fund for Innovative Seniors' Ministry to assist Bridges Out of Poverty. Ann Baker made a gift to the United Church through her estate in 1986. Through her vision and generosity, we have been making grants to support exciting work like this across Canada ever since.

Showing God's Love to the World, donors' gifts are already bearing fruit

Through the generosity of our donors to both the Living Spirit and Faith in Mission funds, we were able to award a Seeds of Hope grant to Calvary United Church (St. Jacob's, ON) to help grow their multi-faceted community of youth leaders and disciples. Focusing on the future together, our Church depends very much on youth and young adults being energized by the Holy Spirit and then being equipped to lead. Programs like Calvary's establish spiritual roots for youth that will hold them firm in God's truth and love. Here, youth and young adults are equipped for more: they learn how to hear God's voice, pray for others, share their faith, and live a joyful life regardless of their circumstances.

Showing God's Love to the World, donors are providing transformational learning

In the mid-1950s, young Dorothy Bourne and Kenley MacNeill both felt the pull to serve in a leadership capacity in their beloved United Church of Canada. Coming from St. Johns, NL, and Malagash, NS, respectively, Dorothy and Kenley met at the Young People's Union National Leadership Event at the newly established Atlantic Christian Training Centre (now Tatamagouche Centre). Dorothy soon became ACTC's first secretary, while Kenley enrolled in further leadership training there.

The Centre, with its vision of transformative education and experience-based learning, continued to play an important part in their lives. After marrying, the MacNeills returned to the Centre many times as participants, as leaders, and as volunteers.

The Centre has always been a place of discovery, offering new models of education, new understandings of group dynamics, as well as new awareness of emerging societal and theological developments. The MacNeills established The Transformational Learning Fund to provide people the opportunity to experience the same transformative learning. The MacNeills' Centre-based education shaped their sense of call to leadership within the Church. It also revealed to them the power of transformative learning and the many ways it positively impacts both individuals and communities.

The Transformational Learning Fund will soon provide bursaries to promising students enrolling in educational programs who demonstrate an openness to being transformed.

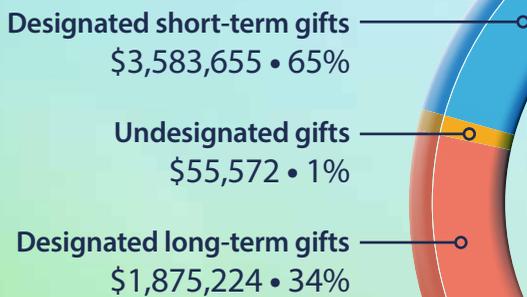

The new Fund is a fitting tribute to two loving people joined in faith and in the desire to live out the call to show God's Love to the World.
